PROFESSIONAL SUMMARY

I work at the intersection of tourism, technology, and content. My interests include tourism development, human behavior in tourism business, and studying how people travel and choose experiences. I write social content and books, and enjoy explaining and describing ideas clearly. I am also a tech enthusiast — I work with programming languages, web development, Python, and SQL.

I founded SylhetTrail, a tour operator business, where I am building Angon, a reservation system for the next generation of travelers. Going forward, I plan to move into deep research on tourism and cultural heritage.
